This new home on a 40 acre site is firmly established on a ridge-top in the foothills of the Madison Mountain range, the house commands views of the Spanish Peaks to the south, the Tobacco Root Mountains to the west, the Bridger Range to the northeast, and the expanse of the Gallatin Valley to the north. In contrast to the vast, rugged beauty of the landscape, this house gains its beauty in the attention given to the fine detailing, craftsmanship and use of materials. Pictures and words that must be experienced to be appreciated both inside and out.
